Description

Step aboard New Moon a 55ft x 10ft widebeam, built in 2006 by Trevor Pope and fitted out by Sir JD Renshaw. Designed to provide comfortable living for two, this well-maintained boat features a practical layout and thoughtful amenities. Whether you're considering life afloat or looking for a reliable cruising vessel, "New Moon" offers a straightforward and welcoming space to call home.

The galley on "New Moon" is designed with efficiency in mind, offering plenty of storage and essential features for daily life. Under-counter cupboards and drawers, along with eye-level shelving, ensure everything has its place. The freestanding oven with grill and four-ring hob provides flexibility for cooking, while a microwave adds convenience. The extendable dining table with two chairs makes a cosy spot for meals, and a radiator helps keep the space warm and inviting.

The lounge offers a simple and comfortable area to unwind. A multifuel stove provides warmth and ambiance, complemented by a radiator for consistent heating. Storage options include two large cupboards and a smaller one on the port side, along with a tall cupboard to starboard. The built-in desk with shelving is a practical addition, ideal for working or organizing. A three-seater sofa completes the space, while steps leading to the bow provide easy access to the outside.

The master bedroom is a cosy and practical space with plenty of built-in storage. Fitted wardrobes and drawers keep belongings organized, and the double bed lifts up to reveal additional storage underneath. Bedside tables provide convenience, while steps to the bow add functionality and easy access to outdoor spaces.

The bathroom is designed for everyday convenience, featuring a full-size bath with a shower overhead. The cassette toilet is straightforward and easy to maintain, and the sink with a vanity unit below offers storage for toiletries.

"New Moon" is a well-proportioned and nicely equipped boat, ideal for comfortable living or exploring the waterways. Its straightforward layout and practical features make it an excellent option for those seeking a manageable and welcoming vessel.
